About the Seminar

The seminar provides platform for the national dialogue on the theme "Public Policy in India and the Global South: Retrospective Analysis" on two consecutive days through offline platform on 6th-7th March, 2025.

Public policy is the overall framework that guides the actions and decisions of government entities, institutions, and officials. It refers to the set of principles and guidelines that governments follow to address social, economic, and political issues.

The Global South refers to countries often characterized as developing, less developed, or underdeveloped, primarily located in Africa, Asia, and Latin America. These nations typically experience higher levels of poverty, income inequality, and challenging living conditions compared to the wealthier nations of the Global North. The term Global South was first coined in 1969 by political activist Carl Oglesby. The Global South has experienced a significant shift in wealth and political visibility in recent decades.

India is seen as a leader of the Global South with its historical initiatives. This commitment to the Global South is rooted in India's own experiences. India held the three 'Voice of Global South Summit'.

This seminar topic aims to deepen the understanding of how public policy affects development across the Global South. Drawing on in-depth case studies, it analyzes the complex interplay of historical, political, economic, and social factors that shape evaluation practices in Africa, Asia, Latin America, and the Middle East. Also explore how colonial legacies, institutional frameworks, and international influences have molded public policy evaluation across diverse contexts.

For this, active participation of all of you is required.
